

Cookie Notice

Filhome.ph • Generated 2 October 2026

Essential cookies

Filhome uses cookies or similar browser storage needed for sign-in sessions, security controls, CSRF protection, preferences and reliable operation of account features. These are used to provide the service rather than to build third-party advertising profiles.

Analytics

If optional analytics are enabled, Filhome will describe the tools used and update this notice where required. Current operational logs may still record technical request information for security and reliability.

Your controls

You can clear browser cookies through your browser settings, but removing essential session cookies will sign you out and may prevent account functions from working until a new session is created.